

SAYS PENNA. HAS UPHILL FIGHT TO KEEP INDUSTRY

Senator Dent, Democrat, Declares Business is Migrating South

AT ALARMING RATE Taxes and Labor Conditions Are Given As Principal Cause

JEANETTE, Pa., Jan. 13.—The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania faces "an uphill fight," in combating the removal of industry out of the State, according to State Senator John H. Dent, chairman of the Joint Legislative Tax Study Commission.

Pennsylvania industry is migrating to the South at an alarming rate, according to Senator Dent and it is going to be difficult for the Keystone State to maintain its industrial supremacy.

Dent, Westmoreland Democrat, stated that he based his opinion upon approximately 11,000 returns from 17,000 questionnaires sent to every industry in the Commonwealth.

Among factors conducive to migration, or to unfavorable industrial conditions in Pennsylvania, he listed taxes, labor conditions, markets, the attitude of the Democratic State Administration toward industry, and more suitable sites offered in other States.

The Tax Study Commission was created by the last session of the Legislature for the purpose of determining what effect heavy State taxes have upon the migration of industry from Pennsylvania.

The Commission was to have held a session in Philadelphia today, but this was canceled at the last minute because of illness in Senator Dent's family.

"We have to face the fact that this is a serious situation," Dent declared. "The members of the Commission are

George W. Rickey Dies At His Morrisville Home

MORRISVILLE, Jan. 13.—The funeral services for the late George W. Rickey, 78, who died here Tuesday, will be conducted tomorrow at two o'clock from his late residence, 600 Crown street.

The service will be in charge of the Rev. Oliver E. Newton, rector of the Church of the Incarnation, and burial is to be made in Morrisville Cemetery. A tinsmith by trade, Mr. Rickey for the past 10 years had been employed by C. V. Hill & Company, in Trenton, N. J. He was born in the old family homestead in Morrisville, and resided there all his life. He was a member of Capitol View Fire Company.

In his younger days, Mr. Rickey was well known for his ability as a bicycle rider and ice skater. One of his most valued possessions was a high-wheeled bicycle, of the type in vogue a half century ago, on which he won a number of races as a youth.

SOLD $695,000 WORTH OF EGGS DURING 1937

Kiwanis Club Told About Big Business Done by Bucks Co. Producers' Co-op. Ass'n

ONE OF LARGEST IN U. S.

DOYLESTOWN, Jan. 13.—One of Bucks county's largest businesses, and by far the largest in this community—the Bucks County Producers' Co-operative Association, better known as the Doylestown egg auction—last year transacted $695,000 worth of business of which 96 per cent went back to the egg farmers of Bucks county.

This was the highlight of the statements made during one of the most interesting and informative programs staged in many months at the weekly dinner meeting of the Kiwanis Club of Doylestown, at the Doylestown Inn.

Although one of the largest egg auctions in the United States operates right in the County Seat, at least 50 per cent of the members of the Kiwanis Club have never attended an auction.

When Kiwanians left the meeting they knew more about eggs than they ever knew before and they realized the great extent of the business being transacted weekly, a business that is putting Bucks County "on the map" in the largest produce centers of the United States.

The program was arranged by Kiwanian E. Newlin Brown, auctioneer at the semi-weekly sales. Together with William Gwinner, recently elected manager of the auction, and John Dugan, champion egg handler, Kiwanian Brown, presented the history of the Doylestown auction and explained the big advantages to the farmers.

"We took Bill Gwinner out of the basement of the auction and made him cashier and he has been handling between $8000 and $15,000 weekly," Kiwanian Brown declared. "He is now managing the auction and doing a very fine job."

Manager Gwinner said that the egg auction started in July, 1931, with 40 members among the egg farmers of Bucks county. Two members of Kiwanis, A. B. Clark and William Lynch, were among the first members.

The first egg auction in the country was started in Toms River, N. J., but the promotion lacked co-operation and failed. Gwinner pointed out.

There were two employees at the Doylestown auction when it started in the basement of a local store building. John Dugan, egg handler and a manager. The auction now has its own large building, 9 candlers, five persons in the office and four part-time employees including an auctioneer.

In 1933 a total of $237,000 worth of business was transacted. In 1934 the total business amounted to $292,000 or 37,000 crates of eggs sold to the highest bidders. In 1935 real growth started and in 1936 the total business amounted to over $500,000 and in 1937 to $695,000 or 67,000 crates.

Manager Gwinner said that the Flemington (N. J.) egg auction is the largest in this section of the United States, the annual business there amounting to $2,000,000 a year. The Bucks county auction here started right after the Flemington auction and is rapidly growing.

In 1937 a poultry auction was added to the egg auction and poultry is sold weekly. During the first six months the poultry auction did $50,000 worth of business. At the first poultry auction there were 101 coops or "baskets" of poultry sold while the highest sold at one auction was 255 coops.

"Let me impress it on every member of Kiwanis and on every interested farmer and tax-payer in Bucks county, that the egg auction is one of the outstanding benefits to the farmers of Bucks county and to other businesses as well," Manager Gwinner pointed out. "Our auction takes Bucks county eggs only and out of the total of $695,000 worth of business transacted in 1937, 96 per cent went back to Bucks county egg farmers and 4 per cent was spent in operating the auction. That is wonderful, in my opinion. The auction has 700 members, of which 450 are active and bring eggs to Doylestown twice a week. At the Monday auction this week, Auctioneer Brown sold 843 crates of eggs."

PUPILS' REMOVAL TO CONSOLIDATED BUILDING AT SOLEBURY IS PLANNED; LOYAL REPUBLICANS PLAN FOR NEW HEADQUARTERS AT BUCKINGHAM

Day's Visitation is Planned as Doylestown "Institute" Day

INSURANCE MEETING

Mechanics Mutual Has Annual Meeting; Claims Were $18,441

SOLEBURY, Jan. 13.—The removal of pupils from the old Solebury schoolhouse to the new consolidated school building is being planned.

Members of the board have discussed the matter of insurance, purchase of supplies, and installation of electricity in the new structure.

The transfer of pupils is expected about January 20th. Clarence Wiley has been appointed janitor, taking up his duties about the middle of the month.

Mrs. Frances C. Fitting will have charge of the first and second grades. Mrs. Roach the third, fourth and fifth grades and Mrs. Sydonia Mason will be in charge of the sixth, seventh and eighth grades.

As soon as the plastering on the inside is completed the floors will be given some form of dressing.

BUCKINGHAM, Jan. 13.—With a growing membership, the Loyal Republican Club of Bucks County plans to enlarge its headquarters here. Over 200 attended the session at which the step was planned.

Thirty-nine new members were added to the membership. The meeting was presided over by Carol Michener, second vice-president, of Buckingham township. The club owns its own building, clear of debt, and is rapidly building up a surplus to be used in expansion.

Chief of Police James Welsh, Doylestown, addressed the club, explaining the purposes of the Bucks County Crime Laboratory. The Doylestown officer was assured a donation of $10 toward this project.

Dr. R. C. Magill, Burgess of New Hope, reported as chairman of the minstrel show committee that present plans call for the minstrel to be held in February. Other members of the minstrel show committee include: Harris Holmes, W. Carille Hobensack, James Welsh, Doylestown; Charles Afflerbach, Hulmeville; Earl Handy, Buckingham, and District Attorney Edward G. Blester.

DOYLESTOWN, Jan. 13.—Doylestown school authorities plan a one day's visitation to be used as the second institute day, according to supervising principal J. Leonard Halderman.

BUCKS COUNTY FARMERS TO EXHIBIT IN CAPITAL

Attendants at State Farm from This Area Expected To Be High

MONDAY TO FRIDAY

Bucks County residents are to have many exhibits at the State Farm Products Show in the state capital city, Harrisburg, next week.

Thousands of attendants are expected, with Bucks County being well represented. From Monday until Friday the displays will be open to the public.

According to county agent William F. Greenawalt and Miss Edna Stephany, the latter the home economics representative, there will be many exhibits from Bucks county.

Mr. Greenawalt announced this week that there will be an exhibit of Holstein cattle from the county, and among the exhibitors will be Amos Satterthwaite, of near Yardley, and Willis M. Hunsberger, Plumsteadville. An effort will also be made to have a county herd of Holsteins, but this can be done only by having at least four breeders exhibit.

Announcement was made also by Mr. Greenawalt that there will be at least 100 exhibits of eggs from the county. The eggs will be taken to Harrisburg on Sunday by John L. Dugan, head candler for the Bucks County Producers' Co-operative Association. The county scoring the highest number of points in the exhibit of eggs will be awarded a banner.

Among the Bucks county farmers who will exhibit milk at the show are Claude Myers, Plumsteadville; E. F. Stewart, Colmar, and Jerry Taylor, Chalfont. A. H. Vasey, a well-known farmer in Solebury township, will exhibit corn.

Miss Stephany has announced that representatives of various 4-H clubs in the county will exhibit at the show next week. There will be exhibits by the room improvement groups, the garment clubs and the canning clubs. In addition to these, there will be exhibits of school outfits. High point winners at the various shows in the Philadelphia, Jan. 13.—A gunman early today entered a midcity restaurant, fired a bullet into the head of a patron identified as Charles Sherman, 40, and fled unmolested to the street. A bullet in his throat, Sherman staggered to the pavement where he hailed a taxicab and was removed to a hospital, where his condition was described as critical. Police believe a numbers racket may be involved in the shooting.

ASSISTANCE BOARD MEETS AND ORGANIZES

Five Women Members Recently Appointed by Gov. Discuss New Activities

ATTORNEYS DECLINE

DOYLESTOWN, Jan. 13.—The County Assistance Board of the Department of Public Assistance of Pennsylvania met Monday with Mrs. Rose C. Flood, New Hope, as chairman.

Five women, all of whom are members, attended the meeting which was held following a luncheon. The members include Mrs. Gretchen M. Hibbs, Bristol, R. D. No. 1; Mrs. Frances A. Rufe, Sellersville; Mrs. Rose C. Flood, New Hope; Mrs. Elizabeth McKinstry, of Doylestown, and Mrs. Della Garver, Ivyland.

The members of the board have been appointed by Governor George H. Earle. There remain two vacancies, caused by the declination of two well-known attorneys on the board.

Both Charles H. Ortt, of Quakertown, and William R. Stuckert, of Newtown, who were appointed members of the board, have declined their appointment.

Mr. Ortt declined for reasons of health, and Mr. Stuckert for business reasons. The board, when the appointments are completed, will have seven members.

The duties of the board will be to supervise in a general way the work now being carried on by the Mothers' Assistance and Emergency Relief work by the Poor Board.

The board will also take the place of the former Mothers' Assistance Fund Board.

Mrs. Flood, who will serve as chairman of the board, is a graduate of New Hope High School, Class of '06; New Jersey Model School, Class of '08, and New Jersey State Teachers' College, Class of '10.

A school teacher for six years, Mrs. Flood has been president of the Bucks County Parent-Teacher Association for the past five years. She is also treasurer of the Pennsylvania State Parent-Teacher Association, holding that office two years.

Mrs. Emma T. Forsyth Dies In Wilmington

Mrs. Emma T. Forsyth, a former well-known resident of Bristol, died at her home, 1900 West street, Wilmington, Del., yesterday morning, following a lingering illness.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

(Copyright, 1938, by The Baltimore Sun)

Effect Unknown

THE part of inhuman and immensely powerful, but very anonymous, business men to discredit Mr. Roosevelt and the New Deal.

BECAUSE, if there were a way to measure the impression and identify the impressed, it would illuminate the whole field of politics and be extremely educational to politicians. For one thing, it would make clear just how credulous the people really are. For another, it would define more definitely the limits of demagoguery and for another it would establish the relative potency of radio and newspaper appeal—a point very useful to discover, indeed.

THERE IS, of course, no way by which these factors can be arrived at. None the less, it is interesting to review the record. Briefly, the series of events leading up to the barrage were these:

First, there was the secret White House conference of Left Wing Senators at which the President's disposition to conciliate business was changed into a determination not to accept any responsibility for the "business recession."

Second, there was the conference participated in by the excitable Mr. Leon Henderson, the interesting Mr. Isadore Lubin, the versatile Mr. Tommy Corcoran and others at which the notion that big

FIRE LOSS HERE LAST YEAR EXCEEDED LOSS IN 1936 BY $18,175

Six Fires During the Year Jumped Loss Above The Average

Department Answered Six More Alarms Than In Previous Year

The fire loss in Bristol borough last year, exceeded that of 1936, by $18,175, according to the annual report of Clifford Hagerman, chief of the Bristol Consolidated Fire Department. Report of Chief Hagerman was filed with Borough Council on Monday evening. The total loss in 1937 was $24,877, while in 1936 the loss was $6,701. There were 110 alarms answered which was six more than in the previous year.

There were six fires during the year which caused losses exceeding those normally sustained in Bristol.

January 7th, the fire at the store of Abe Popkin, Mill street, caused total damage of $3300, the greater portion of this, or $3100, being lost on the contents.

On February 2nd, the brick dwelling of Anthony Colella, 904 Warren street, was damaged to the extent of $2300, and the contents to the extent of $1500. The largest loss of the year was sustained at the Riverside Theatre, and the three adjoining frame structures, which were damaged to a total extent of $9,000 on August 2nd.

Other losses during the year totaling $1,000 or over, were sustained at the garage of N. I. Lukens, on February 24th. The loss on the property was $500 and the contents $700. The dwelling at 907 Pear street on February 27th, was damaged to the extent of $745, and the contents $245.

The tractor and trailer of the Miller Transportation Company which went off the roadway, falling onto the bank of Otter Creek, early on the morning of December 18th, was damaged by fire to the extent of $1,000.

The total loss on property in the borough last year, due to fire, is given as $12,605, while the loss to contents is given as $19,571, with a loss to automobiles of $1700.

Firemen answered calls for 17 property fires; grass and rubbish, 23; out-of-town calls, 23; automobiles, 12; chimney, two; wharf, one; factory, one; burns, four; garages, three; false alarms, six; service to Philadelphia Electric Company, one; service to sewer department, one; freight house, one; tree, one; taking injured to hospital, one; dump, one; tar barrel, one; ties, one. CITY OF TOMORROW

The city of the near future will bear slight resemblance to the city of today, according to one traffic expert who predicts a revolution in construction designed to cope with the problem of death by automobile. Asserting that the only solution of urban traffic congestion and danger lies in radiating streets of the express type, Dr. Miller McClintock, director of the Harvard bureau of street traffic research, foresees a ten-year period of traffic saturation and dangerous operation, out of which will grow a strange but effective type of city.

There is no magic by which accidents can be prevented; education may reduce them in some measure but advocates of the express highway system believe that this novel construction will cut down casualties by as much as 98 per cent, while at the same time speed the movement of cars. The West Side express highway in New York City is pointed to as an excellent example of what this idea can do. This artery accommodates more than 40,000 automobiles a day, but there has been only one fatal accident in the several years that it has been in operation.

In the experience of cities which have provided fifty or sixty miles an hour express highways, it has been found not only that the high speed could be maintained but also that the accident hazard has been virtually eliminated.

INGENIOUS BUILDING IDEA

As part of its campaign to stimulate construction of low-cost houses, to encourage improvement in quality and soundness of construction and to obtain economies which would reduce building costs, the Canadian government has fostered an ingenious idea. In order to give the benefit of professional planning to those who would build a home in the $2,500 or $3,000 class, there has just been announced an architectural contest.

From designs submitted by architects throughout the Dominion, a judging committee will select from five to ten sketches, for which the government will pay $250. The winners will then be asked to send complete plans and working drawings. These finished plans will be made available to prospective home owners at $10 each.

The contest will close January 24, and the awards will be made with dispatch so that the plans will be in the hands of the public in plenty of time to take advantage of the opening of spring building operations.

Two years ago, an architectural competition was conducted which made important contributions to further the Dominion's objectives with regard to improvement of housing conditions. The success of that competition has been a major factor in inducing the government to foster the present one.

"Women In Love" by May Christie

SYNOPSIS

When her father's bank fails, Ann Delafield decides to help the family chequer by going to work. She obtains employment as "comparisons-shopper"—buying competitors' products to compare with those of Barclay & Weiss, a large department store for which she works.

Ann is attracted to handsome Paul Bradley, the merchandise manager, who hired her. He is her ideal of a real man compared with the young wastrels in her society set. Brenda Selz, the gift shop buyer and Ann's superior, who loves Paul in vain, is jealous of Ann. On her first day at business, Ann meets an old admirer, Gordon Gavin. Gordon's father was ruined in the crash and committed suicide, and the former playboy is now an advertisement writer for Barclay & Weiss. Renita Parrish, another employee, sees Gordon and Ann lunching together and glares at them. Following his father's death, Gordon dropped his rich friends and had found Renita a balm for his loneliness. He now regrets that he ever encouraged her. At another table, Ann sees Bradley watching her. Brenda ridicules Ann when she turns over to the buyer the fruits of her first shopping tour—a fitted pouch-bag and two novelty bracelets. As the discouraged girl turns away from Brenda, she encounters Paul. He gets a very favorable opinion on the bracelets from the costume jewelry buyer, so he instructs her to place an order for the same. As for the pouch, he takes that for further consideration.

CHAPTER VIII

Gordon Gavin never took his eyes off Ann Delafield during the advertising conference on the sixth floor. Renita Parrish, who had no real reason to be present, kept her strange green orbs three-fourths of the time on Ann Delafield, while the sultry gaze of Brenda Selz was fixed, as though oblivious of anything else, on the handsome merchandise manager.

The air buzzed with something over and above "business."

By grapevine telegraph, the word had gone around the store that a pretty Society girl, on the strength of her beauty and background, had been engaged by Mr. Bradley, who had been completely bowled over by her, and so had Gordon Gavin, whom she had picked up in the restaurant at lunch, bare-facedly.

That she was high-hat too, and had cockily set up her opinion against that of the Gift Shop buyer, who was going to have her discharged.

That she was a vamp, and an intriguer, and had come here for a whim, being bored with Park Avenue and probably seeking male worlds to conquer.

Not only was Gordon Gavin, staring at her, bewitched (that was in words) but the Art Director of the advertising as well. This was so much, albeit thrilling, when he was not only Cora Schmidt's admirer but it was absolutely essential for him to keep his wits about him at the conference, for it was no small job to be responsible for thousands of illustrated ads weekly, and this was the occasion of the big Sunday lay-out.

Cora Schmidt seemed unaware of it, however. From her fingertip dangled a bracelet of crystal and beads in fancy design. Thus conspicuously poised above the assortment of laubies in the lap of the buyer of Costume Jewelry, Brenda Selz saw it and turned purple. The bracelet she'd turned down, right here in Mr. Bradley's own office! Incredible!

Mr. Bradley was calling upon the big buyer to show the goods that he had selected for the Sunday ad.

"This here little number seems an A-1 proposition to me," said the Bag Buyer, who, though careless of his grammar, was endowed with a sixth sense when it came to anticipating the desires of 'wimmin'—and he held up the very bag that Brenda had rejected from Ann Delafield!

Miss Selz nearly passed out! But the Advertising-Head and the Merchandise-Manager okayed his choice and other items, and it came to her own turn. Was it her fancy, or was there a slightly antagonistic look in Mr. Bradley's eye as he informed her that her space for Sunday must be cut in less than half, this week?

Was this retribution? The conference continued. Brenda could now have left, but the bracelet on the tip of the finger of the Costume Jewelry buyer held her, willy-nilly.

Was it really going in the Sunday lay-out?

It was! That little Delafield mink had put a swift one over on her . . . but would pay for it!

In front of Mr. Bradley were the proof sheets of the big double spread, and here and there a column would be already half filled. Subject to complete change, of course, Mr. Bradley's word was final, although it was an understood thing that the Advertising Head and he went fifty-fifty on arrangements for cuts, space, drawings, etc.

Now Mr. Bradley asked sharply: "Who wrote the copy for this lingerie ad?"

"I did," Gordon Gavin replied. A moment's tense pause. The merchandise manager frowned. "It'll have to be done over again. It's awful!" he remarked succinctly.

The big Ice Carnival for Charity was to be held at Madison Square Garden on the night of November 15th.

"And for the Lord's sake, try to sell some tickets for us," groaned sister Bernice to Ann. Bernice was now "cocktail-hostess" at The Laughing Pig rendezvous on East 54th Street, decorated by Freddy, and haunted by the so-called elite.

Bernice and Claire were involved in most of the big charity functions, in one way or another. Sometimes Ann had the disturbing suspicion that her sisters were involved more than was ethically correct, i.e. that they were getting a rake-off in commission, like many Society damsels who were none too scrupulous.

"I'll do what I can," said Ann, who was enormously busy, these pre-Christmas days.

The work in and out of the store absorbed her, though she did go to a few parties, as became a post-debutante in her first "post" year, for Ann was only nineteen.

"Something new in ideas," said Claire the boss, "is what we want. The sick of seeing the same old ideas. I declare Freddy did a good job in putting them on the bodies of signs!"

Claire was making a good thing, financially, out of her eternal contract-bridge games, especially at such times as Captain de Freyn partnered her. She derided Ann for working herself to death on a pit-tance of eighteen dollars a week, when even stupid Bernice was collecting thirty-five dollars every Saturday for drinking champagne cocktails, at The Laughing Pig, between the hours of five and seven.

Ann thought over the Ice Carnival. She hatched a bright idea.

It would kill three birds with one stone. Promote the success of the skating fete. Benefit Barclay & Weiss's department store. And placate Brenda Selz, the disgruntled Gift Shop buyer.

Since Halloween, for which she had ordered a consignment of masks and dominoes, Brenda had

The funeral of John L. Smith was held from his home in Trenton, N. J., Wednesday morning at nine o'clock. Solemn requiem high mass was celebrated in St. Mary's Cathedral at 10 o'clock, with burial in St. Mary's Cemetery.

Mr. Smith was born in Fallsington, and was well known in Bucks County where he was engaged in farming several years ago. He had lived retired for the past decade. Mr. Smith was 83 years old at the time of his death. Surviving are two daughters, the Misses M. Agnes and Frances V. Smith, attaches of the state house offices of the Governor, Trenton; four sons, Royman J., Edmund J., Joseph A. and Leo A. Smith; two sisters, Mrs. Mary F. Dunn and Mrs. Annie O'Brien, and seven grandchildren.

Miss Josephine Hutt, Pottstown, was a week-end guest of Miss Mary Jane Chamberlin.

business had deliberately brought about the slump was affectionately elaborated and dressed up.

Third, there was the sending of Mr. Ickes, Mr. Jackson and Mr. Henderson out in advance of the Presidential message to inaugurate over the air what Mr. Arthur Krock called a "Week of Hate."

THE PRESS reaction to that was extremely unfavorable. Even some of the most pronounced Roosevelt papers condemned the idea. It was not only that Mr. Ickes with his absurd "sixty families" stuff, and Mr. Jackson with his pumped up cry over monopolistic practices, failed to ring the bell, but the idea of business men ruining themselves economically for the sake of damaging Mr. Roosevelt politically was a little too silly to take seriously. The result of the press reaction was that Mr. Roosevelt in his message "pulled his punches" very much and left the Messrs. Ickes and Jackson pretty far out on the limb. It was not until Saturday night that the attack was renewed with many simultaneous assaults over the air, the President limiting his denunciation to a "mere handful" of unnamed business men, but his aides again sneering business generally.

WHILE there were a dozen variations of the tune they all sang in the same key. The basic thought sought to be conveyed was that the "business recession" had been engineered by the "Haves" to frustrate New Deal efforts to aid the "Have Nots." While Mr. Roosevelt was more restrained in this charge than the others, that was the burden of the song. Nor do the recent White House conferences with business leaders change the fact, though they do add to the confusion. The calculation back of the Jackson Day outburst was to nullify the effect of the general newspaper ridicule of the conspiracy theory. They knew the first blast from the Messrs. Ickes and Jackson, supplemented by Mr. Henderson, greatly referred to by his admirers as the New Deal

"idea man," did not take well. The Jackson Day oratory was intended to give the people "full strength."

HOLDING UP to scorn his "mere handful" of wicked and strictly anonymous industrialists, Mr. Roosevelt pledged himself to "fight" though against whom and for what he was somewhat vague. At the same time his selected subordinates unleashed their heaviest fire against business in general. Now, it is anybody's guess as to the result. Certainly the newspapers offset the first radio attack. Whether the second and greater burst of aerial oratory nullified the newspapers there is no way to tell. The New Dealers contend they put their idea over with the people generally and, even while the President confers with industrialists at the White House, it is being echoed by New Deal spokesmen in different parts of the country.

ON THE OTHER HAND, General Johnson, who has recently been traveling around, asserts that while the President today is stronger than ever with the C. I. O. and the colored people, he has lost considerably in prestige among the farmers and "tremendously and irretrievably" in prestige with the little business man and white-collar worker; that the business "plot" idea was to obviously false for any but the most blindly prejudiced to swallow. Perhaps he is right. At any rate, having committed themselves, from President down, to the theory that there exist these bad and brutal business men who enslave the people and plot against the noble President, the New Deal spokesmen will continue along those lines and we are sure to hear a lot more speeches to that general effect. The impression made will be in exact proportion to the boobishness of the radio audience—and there is no yardstick with which to measure that. One handicap the New Dealers have in this line of attack is that not many of them believe their own stuff.

WOULD YOU BUY IT AGAIN?

All merchants—nearly everybody who makes a living by selling something—can be divided into two distinct groups:

GROUP ONE: The merchant whose goods give so little value that he, like the old-time vendor of gold-bricks, cannot expect "repeat" orders. He must make all his profit from the first (and only) sale. Then he must seek buyers not yet familiar with his goods or reputation.

GROUP TWO: The merchant whose goods are sold in the hope of winning the purchaser's continued patronage. He can expect only a moderate profit. Thus, one sale per person is not enough. Each article must be good enough to make the buyer want to buy it again.

The merchants who advertise in this paper belong in Group Two. They could not stay in business unless they earned "repeat" orders—unless they gave you honest value for every dollar you spend with them.

That is why each article they sell you must be so thoroughly satisfactory that you would later answer "yes" to this, the most important question a merchant can ask a customer: "Would you buy it again?"

RISE IN COSTS FOR STATE PAPERS FOR 1938 SET AT $5,000,000; 40 RAISE SUBSCRIPTION RATES

HARRISBURG, Jan. 13 — Pennsylvania daily and weekly newspaper publishers are coming to Harrisburg, tomorrow and Saturday, for the 13th Annual Convention of the Pennsylvania Newspaper Publishers' Association to discuss ways and means of meeting expected increases in operating costs in 1938 over 1937 of approximately $5,000,000.

Of this sum upwards of $3,000,000 will go to newsprint manufacturers and the balance for larger payrolls, higher transportation costs, increased taxes and mounting charges for supplies and services, according to a report issued by the Association's headquarters here.

Drastic economies and new sources of revenue are recommended by the P. N. P. A. manager, William N. Hardy, to meet this new condition. Mr. Hardy says that the situation is more serious for newspapers than at any time in the last 10 years, due to the fact that expenses, especially payrolls and taxes, have been mounting for three years at an alarming rate.

During this same period, the report shows, the newspapers of the state have devoted annually $5,000,000 worth of space, figured at cost, to civic promotion—community chests, Christmas funds, hospital drives and the like.

It is advocated by the newspaper association that this contribution to the general welfare be continued in spite of the rising costs, and that service to readers be increased rather than decreased.

The report also shows that the newspapers gave away 3,600 pages of free commercial publicity in a single year. It is recommended that drastic cuts be made in this field.

A surprisingly large number of daily newspapers have prepared for the increased expenses by raising subscription rates. The P. N. P. A. sets forth. Twenty-five have already acted along this line and 15 more have advised the P. N. P. A. Central Office that they will do so this month. Forty dailies have raised advertising rates and more feel forced to do so, the report says.

In the weekly field, about 50 papers have raised both subscription and advertising rates.

Daily newspapers which have raised subscription rates to meet the new conditions are:

Pennsylvania Spirit, Erie Dispatch-Herald, Johnstown Tribune and Democrat, Beaver Falls News-Tribune, Lock Haven Express, Reading Times, Sharon Herald, Philadelphia Inquirer, Ridgway Record, Williamsport Sun and Gazette - Bulletin, Harrisburg Telegraph, Hazleton Plain Speaker, Reading Eagle, Phoenixville Republican, Butler Eagle, Waynesboro Record, Herald, Lansford Evening Record, Norristown Times-Herald, Canonsburg Daily Notes, Philadelphia Record, Jeannette News-Dispatch, Harrisburg Patriot and Evening News, Sunbury Daily, Bloomsburg Morning Press and Berwick Enterprise.

The report of the manager comments that "even though the profitable year of 1936 was followed by a year of absent profits in many quarters, press leadership has been maintained and magnificent opportunities for publishing service have been conspicuously accepted."

The convention will be told that circulations of Pennsylvania newspapers are at their tops today, with press prestige never greater.

Among the major topics to be discussed under the leadership of Floyd Chalfant, publisher of the Waynesboro Record-Herald, president of the P. N. P. A., will be editorial affairs, labor, legislation, advertising, costs and economies, and subscription rate.

Speakers listed include John E. Person, editor of the Williamsport Sun; Ray Sprinkle, Pittsburgh Post-Gazette reporter; James J. Hoge, New York City, general counsel of the Proprietary Association; Andrew Connolly, The Joseph Horne Store, Pittsburgh; Warren Van Dyke, State Secretary of Highways; Colonel Ernest G. Smith, Wilkes-Barre Times-Leader; M. Lyle Spencer, dean of the Department of Journalism at Syracuse University; A. W. McDowell, Sharon Herald; Herbert D. Brauff, Vandergrift News, and Millard A. Stofflet, Hamburg Item.

Special programs have been prepared for the weekly-paper publishers. The Pennsylvania Women's Press Association will meet during the convention, the Associated Press will have a luncheon, and the United Press will entertain its state members.

Among the feature events of the convention will be a reception by Governor and Mrs. George H. Earle at the Executive Mansion. The sessions will close with a dinner at which the principal speaker will be William W. Mitchell of the Ford Motor Company.

Says Penna. Has Uphill Fight To Keep Industry

convinced that it is so serious that the issue involved must be kept absolutely free from politics or partisanship. If the considerations involved are belocuted by recriminations, accusations and charges of partisanship, we might as well shut up shop right now.

"There is an actual trend of industry out of Pennsylvania to other States, particularly to the South, which is most sharply emphasized in the hosiery industry.

"In addition to that, however, there is a general trend, due to a variety of the causes.

"I don't want to discuss them specifically, or in their categorical order of importance, as indicated by the questionnaire returns, for two reasons: First, because the returns have not been analyzed completely, and second, because the members of the commission have agreed that to avoid ambiguity, specific statements regarding our findings are to be made publicly only over the signatures of all members of the committee."

He was asked about what specific taxes are objected to by industry, and promptly replied, "All kinds."

"Everyone complains about taxes, but I would say that the two which lead the list are the capital stock tax and the corporation income tax. The income tax, of course, is applied only to the firm that actually is making money, so that on that basis, at least, it is not so objectionable from the industrial point of view.

"But I regard the capital stock tax as one of the most flagrant examples of dual taxation that has ever come to my notice. I'm perfectly free to say that, I didn't know very much about it until I became chairman of this committee, and then I found that it actually is nothing more nor less than a tax upon new capital that is invested in industry.

"The capital stock tax is effective whether the concern which pays it makes any money or not."

Senator Dent emphasized that "for the last 30 years, the South has been trying to get industry and it hasn't been getting anywhere, because it had few natural inducements to attract well-established Northern industries."

"Now they are offering free land, free taxes, free buildings and other inducements which amount to nothing more or less than industrial piracy of the most flagrant kind. But they also have on their side of the argument these things that our industrialists have complained of to us in answering our questionnaire."

He agreed that some portion of the answers would have to be regarded as "just the usual belly-aching," but that besides this perennial discontent there were substantial factors in operation causing withdrawal of industry from the State.

JANUARY SUGGESTS LINEN INVENTORY

The first month of the year always is associated with inventory. January is an excellent time to check over the supply of household linens and make replacements, when necessary. That applies to kitchen hand towels and dish towels, as well as to bed linens and requisites for the bathroom.

"January White Sales" no longer are restricted to white, in table linens and in bath towels.

In fact, table linens of softly gleaming satin damask, in pale pastel colors, help the hostess to achieve a flattering setting for formal parties. There are such very pale pastels as pearl pink, ice green and powdery blues. For more dashing effects are duobonnet damask, with the contrasting design in silver gray. Fashionable also is silver gray. And rose beige is warm and flattering.

Many of these table damasks have floral designs, with the main design in a narrow center panel, leaving plainer margins where plates are to be placed. The napkins in these sets are longer and narrower than usual and have won the descriptive name, "lapkins."

Cotton and rayon are producing smart new cloths, combining effectively in silver and yellow, and in oyster white. In some sets, the new long napkins may be used also as place mats.

Bright colors still run riot in luncheon linens, guaranteed to pep up family or guests. Smart sets for the smart set are in gay red, bright green and duobonnet. Checked gingham is a popular material for sets of place mats, runner and napkins, flaunting novel applique designs.

by four squad members, who worked for a long period.

During the year the squad purchased a new Studebaker ambulance to replace the Packard invalid car. This purchase was made in February.

In August the squad purchased the property where the Croydon headquarters are now located, on Maryland avenue, East of Patterson avenue.

On July 4th the squad members attended the New Jersey State Firemen's field day celebration in Trenton, N. J., and were awarded three prizes, two silver trophies and a check for $25.

The squad is a volunteer organization, rendering service to humanity 24 hours a day, every day of the year. "Our officers and members do not receive one penny of pay, nor does this organization receive any state or county aid," the officers inform. "We anticipate the opening and equipping of first-aid sub-stations in Andalusia, Cornwells Heights, Edgely, Tullytown and Morrisville, in the near future, as finances will permit."

Most of the eggs sold at the local auction are bought by northern New Jersey men who sell them in New York City. One of the biggest buyers is a large chain store operating in eastern cities.

In introducing John Dugan, egg candler, who holds a record of candling 18,000 eggs in nine hours, and who has judged some of the largest egg shows in the United States, Kiwanian Brown said that in Dugan the egg auction has one of the most loyal and capable of employees.

"Up until 1930 all Pennsylvania eggs and eggs from other eastern states had a 'spotted reputation,'" Dugan declared.

"As a result of this, the western egg farmers stole the eastern market. The chickens laid the eggs here in the east but the farmers did not know how to market them. We have not yet altogether overcome this 'spotted reputation' but the egg auctions are doing much to break it down and to give back to the eastern egg farmers the eastern egg market.

"The Doylestown auction has the reputation all over the country, but especially in New York and Philadelphia, as having the very best egg market in the East.

"And speaking of the western egg farmers, it costs them 9 cents a dozen to place the eggs in the New York market while it costs the members of the Bucks county auction only 1 1/6 cents to place them in the same market. The western farmers have been carrying out a quality program for years while the eastern farmers did not start it until recent years. Our quality program at the Doylestown auction is one of the finest and that is the reason our eggs bring a premium."

Birthday greetings were extended to Kiwanians Matthew Godshall and Leonard Halderman, who presided at his first meeting as the new president for 1938.

One new member of Kiwanis, William Erdman, classification, paints, wholesale and retail, was introduced by the chairman of his sponsoring committee, Kiwanian D. Ralph Stone. Kiwanian Erdman, who was welcomed by President Halderman, will be initiated next week.

Secretary Russ Thomas appointed Kiwanian Howard Clymer, chairman of the inter-club relations committee to organize a contingent from the local club for the purpose of attending a meeting on Thursday night, January 27, when a charter will be presented to the new Olney Kiwanis Club.

Announcement was made that the speaker at next week's meeting, January 18, will in all probability be one of the outstanding members of the famous Hollywood colony who has a home in Bucks county.

The meeting closed with a snappy auction of one crate of eggs snatched off by "Colonel" Brown.

WYCOMBE, Jan. 13—Claims ap-proximating $18,441 were adjusted at the 96th annual meeting of the Mechanics Mutual Insurance Association of Bucks County, meeting here a few days ago. This was for 35 of the nearly 300 policyholders, and was for losses during the past year.

Claims, it has been announced, were somewhat smaller than they were last year. During the morning the directors held a meeting for the purpose of clearing up business of the old year and in the afternoon officers for the ensuing year were elected.

During the noon hour a turkey dinner was served in the dining room of the Wycombe Baptist Church by the ladies' aid society of this congregation.

The amount of insurance in force as of December 31, 1937, was about $11,948,000. During the meeting the auditors, Lester I. Smith, Buckmanville, and F. Willard Worthington, Penn's Park, reported having found the accounts of the treasurer in good condition.

Only one change was made in the directorship. Albert J. Thompson, of this place, who has served for a number of years as president, was succeeded on the board of directors by Clarence H. Smith, of this place.

The following officers were elected: President, Albert J. Thompson, of this place; secretary, Wilmer A. Twining, of this place; treasurer, Edward R.

Kirk, of this place; surveyors, Carlton E. Rich, Doylestown; Dighton W. W. Spoor, of near Carversville; Clarence H. Smith, of this place; Henry C. Parry, Langhorne, and Harvey S. Stackhouse, Ivyland, and directors, Carlton E. Rich, Doylestown; Albert W. Preston, Solebury; Eugene Stapler, Yardley; B. Palmer Tomlinson, New Hope; Harvey S. Stackhouse, Ivyland, and Edward R. Kirk and Clarence H. Smith, of this place.

STILL "TOPS"... after 31 Years As a Tobacco Auctioneer

Veteran Jim Edwards tells why tobacco experts prefer Luckies 2 to 1...

"I recently sold 489,000 pounds of tobacco in one 6 1/2 hour day," says Mr. J. N. Edwards of Farmville, North Carolina.

"There was a buyer, naturally, for every one of those 489,000 pounds... But there was as much difference between the best grades and the inferior, as between a pretty girl and a homely one.

"At auction after auction, I've seen Lucky Strike go after the prettiest lots of tobacco. It's no wonder Luckies taste so good. I've smoked them since 1917.

"And another thing... even after yelling out tobacco bids all during a seven hour day, Luckies are still just as easy as ever on my throat."

Only Lucky Strike offers you the finest tobacco plus the throat-protection of the exclusive process "It's Toasted". This process takes out certain irritants found in all tobacco—even the finest.

Men who know tobacco from A to Z—experts like Mr. Edwards—are surely good judges of cigarettes... Sworn records show that, among independent tobacco experts, Luckies have twice as many exclusive smokers as have all the other cigarettes combined.

LEARN LABEL TERMS FOR GOODS IN ORDER TO GET SATISFACTION

By Miss Edna Stephany
(Home Economics Representative)

Terms on a proper slip label should be understood. Knowing what they mean will enable the consumer to make a better purchase.

Become acquainted with the terms and keep them in mind when buying. Fiber identification tells what fibers are present in the fabric. The fibers in slips are usually silk, rayon, cotton, or a mixture of any of these. If more than one fiber is present, the percentage of each should be stated. If the slip is made of rayon, the type of rayon fiber should be stated.

Indication of weighting tells whether or not the material is weighted. Tin and lead salts are often used to "weight" light silks in order to give them more body. Too much weighting reduces the elasticity and strength of silk. Slight weighting is permissible because it helps to keep the yarns from slipping. A "pure dye silk" label indicates only 10 per cent foreign matter is present in the silk fabric. Minimum tensile strength means the smallest number of pounds exerted in order to break the warp and filling threads of the slip fabric. For example, 84x80 would mean the breaking strength of the warp threads was 84 pounds and of the filling threads 80 pounds. The most durable fabrics have equal, or nearly equal tensile strengths. Too much difference would cause fabrics to split.

Shrinkage tells whether or not the material in the garment has already been shrunk. "Pre-shrunk" and "super-shrunk" indicate that the material has been washed once but is not guaranteed against further shrinking. "Fully yshrunk," "completely shrunk," and "will not shrink" can rightly be expected to show no noticeable shrinkage when laundered.

Fabric slippage—often manufacturers will guarantee their garments against any yarn slippage. When yarns "slip," threadbare spots appear in the fabric. Seam strength indicates whether guarantees are given against seams bursting or pulling out.

TAKE WEIGHT OFF TIRED FEET

LOSE FAT THE EASY WAY—Without Starvation Diets, or Back-Breaking, Bending and Rolling Exercises.

If your feet and ankles feel tired and ache all over—because you are carrying too much fat—do something about it. Try the treatment that has helped millions to reduce excess weight.

There's a reason why so many people find dieting slow and often times futile in reducing. The reason, doctors say, is often because a little gland is not working right. All the blood in your body goes through this tiny gland sixteen times every day. If it doesn't pour into the blood stream about one and one-half drops of vital fluid every 24 hours, many people take on ugly fat. This fluid helps Nature to "burn up" excess food and fatty tissue in much the same way as a good "draft" acts in a furnace. Now, physicians combat this condition by feeding this gland the substance it lacks—and millions of pounds of excess fat has been wiped out in this way.

Marmola Prescription Tablets contain the same element prescribed by most doctors in treating their fat patients. So don't waste your time or money striving to reduce with starvation diets or back-breaking exercises. Start the Marmola treatment today. That millions have used successfully to get rid of excess fat. The formula is in every box so you know just what you are taking. It's safe—get a box of Marmola today from your druggist.

Behind the Scenes in HOLLYWOOD

By HARRISON CARROLL
Copyright, 1938
King Features Syndicate, Inc.

HOLLYWOOD—Very few stand-ins climb behind their jobs, but the case of Adalyn Doyle reminds Hollywood that it can be done.

Miss Doyle is enjoying a laugh at the movie capital's expense this week. She used to face the lights for Katharine Hepburn at R-K-O. Suddenly, she pulled out of Hollywood and went to New York. She took a new name, Eve March, went to work at the radio and on the stage. Last year, she played the ingenue lead in "Home Sweet Home".

Adalyn is now in Hollywood on a visit. She has received a movie offer for many times her salary as a stand-in. She has turned it down, preferring to get more experience on Broadway.

It was all over town that Lana Turner and Donald Barry had eloped. What happened, they say, was this. She went into the Froedero wearing a sapphire ring with a plain gold band for a guard. The crowd insisted the pair were married and someone told the orchestra to play the wedding march. Since then, Lana has taken off the rings and both she and Barry have been busy denying they are bride and groom.

In a comedy routine with Stu Erwin on the air the other night, Jack Oakie flippantly gave instructions to get Charlie McCarthy on the phone. "Number's Hollywood 3101," he said.

Gag was greeted by a murmur in the audience and the program went on. But at Columbia Broadcasting, where the number is Hollywood 3101, all was bedlam. For 15 minutes, every trunk-line on the switchboard was jammed with calls mostly from women wanting to talk to Charlie McCarthy.

Shirley Temple almost got a trained penguin for a present. Gordon and Revel were going to give it to her until Mrs. Temple found out it would have to be kept in the family swimming pool and fed on a diet of herring. She firmly declined the penguin. The Paramount publicity department is afraid to tell Bing Crosby they have lost his doctor of philosophy degree, recently awarded the crooner by Gonzaga university. The degree was borrowed so that pictures of it might be taken. Now it has disappeared.

Osa Massen, Twentieth Century-Fox's new Danish importation, has the strangest background of any Hollywood actress. She used to be a feminine photographer for a Danish newspaper. Later, she became a film cutter and finally an actress. In this dual capacity, she realized the dream of every star. Cutting her own pictures.

At 23, she is starting her Hollywood movie career. Her next step, she says, will be to become an American citizen.

Postal authorities were asked to investigate a man said to be annoying Claire Trevor. He managed to slip into the studio and to conceal himself in the star's dressing room for a day and night. He has written the actress, claiming to have lost a wallet, containing $30 in her room and asking her to return the money.

AMMOTH DISPLAY FOR CONSUMERS AT ANNUAL EXPOSITION

For the second successive year, the annual January meeting of New York State food producers, distributors, state officials and marketing experts was coupled with a mammoth display for consumers in Syracuse, N. Y.

This New York State Farm Foods Exposition provides a regular opportunity for growing and marketing experts to exchange practical experiences—and the consumer profits directly from the conference.

Interesting among the displays were an improved variety of "Iceberg" lettuce for the state, new potato seedlings, results of vegetable research and a presentation of vegetable diseases most prevalent in 1937.

The publication offices at Cornell and the agricultural experiment station at Geneva combined their exhibits of bulletins which feature New York state foods. The information has broadened from the growing of crops into the preparation of foods, food values, vitamins, cookery, wise buying, home canning, the feeding of children and kindred subjects important to the homemaker.

Visitors at the exhibition, from January 5-7, had an opportunity to study some of the insect and plant enemies the farmer controls in producing high-quality foods for market.

Results of steady research showed the control of browning in cauliflower with boron. New and standard varieties of potatoes also were on parade, with the limelight focused on a new potato seedling designed to compete with the popular Idaho "baker."

Cellophane was shown in many forms at a recent exhibition in the New York State College of Home Economics. As a garment protector, it appeared in bags for coats, frocks and shoes, and it also was used for practical aprons, make-up capes and of course the useful icebox bags, some of which zip. There are cellophane umbrellas, compact rain capes, small flat bags to aid packing and lamp-shade covers. Fire-proof cellophane is a new development.

TIMELY RECIPES You Will Want to Try!

Date-Nut Ice Cream

After the steady procession of pumpkin and mince pies, during the holiday season, this superb dessert will provide a treat. And it will grace any festive occasion.

Sixteen marshmallows (one-quarter pound); one cup milk; one-third cup chopped nuts; one-half cup chopped dates; few grains salt; one-half teaspoon vanilla; one cup (one-half pint) whipping cream.

Heat the marshmallows with the milk in the top of the double boiler until melted. Remove from the heat and add the nuts, dates, salt and vanilla. Stir until the dates are fairly well dissolved. Cool until slightly stiffened, then pour in the whipped cream. Pour into the tray of mechanical refrigerator to freeze and ripen for several hours.

This is a simple recipe to make and the mixture need not even be stirred in the tray unless the nuts show signs of settling to the bottom. It may be prepared well in advance and will serve six to eight.

Charried Apples

These apples have no definite name, but they are delicious with turkey, chicken or any cold meat. They are a colorful addition to a party affair, too.

Mix four cups sugar and four cups water. Add the grated rind of one orange and one lemon and cook until the syrup spins a thread. Have ready eight apples, cored and cut in slices one-half inch thick, without paring. Drop in the slices and cook slowly and carefully until golden in color. Then add the strained juices of the orange and the lemon and let cool.

Western Eggs

An excellent luncheon or Sunday night supper is this. For three or four servings, six to eight eggs, use these quantities:

One and one-half cup tomato juice; one cup cracker crumbs; one small onion, minced; one-half cup peas, or other left-over vegetable; salt, pepper, paprika; grated American cheese.

Mix tomato juice, cracker crumbs, minced onion and peas and spread in shallow baking dish. On top of this mixture carefully break as many eggs as are needed. Season to taste and sprinkle generously with grated cheese. Bake in moderate oven, 325 degrees, until eggs are as firm as desired (20 to 30 minutes), serving in baking dish.

Braised Endives

Clean the endives. Butter a baking dish and place the endives in it. Melt a little butter, add the juice of one lemon and a little salt. Pour over the endives. Cover with buttered paper and place a tight cover over that. Bake in the oven until tender. When thoroughly done, arrange on a platter, sprinkle on a few drops of molasses and glaze under the broiler.

Baked Onions

Two pounds onions; two tablespoons butter; one teaspoon salt; pepper. Peel onions and arrange in a greased baking dish. Dot them with butter and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Cover and bake in a moderate oven, 375 degrees F. for 45 minutes, or until tender. If a glaze is desired, two tablespoons of sugar may be added with the salt and pepper. If a milder flavor is desired, pour boiling water over the onions after they are peeled and drain after a minute or two. This also will speed the baking process.

Dependable Pumpkin Pie

Build up a rich pastry high around the edge of a deep nine or ten-inch pie dish. Turn into it this mixture, thoroughly mixed:

One and one-half cups thick cooked pumpkin; one cup brown sugar (less if a pie that is not too sweet is preferred); one-half teaspoon salt; one teaspoon cinnamon; one-half teaspoon ginger; one-eighth teaspoon each nutmeg and allspice; one cup milk; one cup cream; two eggs, slightly beaten. (Use some molasses for a darker pie.)

When the pie begins to puff up in the center, try it with a sharp knife, to let out steam. If the knife comes out clean, the pie is done. Some experts recommend baking the first 15 minutes at 450 degrees F. Then reduce the heat to 350 degrees F. and bake until firm when tested with knife-blade. If whipped cream is served on the pie, flavor it with syrup from preserved Chinese ginger. One-half to three-fourths cup brown sugar is the amount preferred by many pumpkin pie experts.

Ham-Pumpkin Souffle

About one cup stale bread crumbs; milk; three tablespoons butter; one cup strained pumpkin; one-half teaspoon salt; one-eighth teaspoon pepper; three egg yolks beaten light; three-fourths cup cooked ham, diced; three egg whites beaten stiff and one tablespoon chopped parsley.

Cover bread crumbs with milk. When bread has softened, mash. There should be about one-half cup. Add butter and cook until mixture is pasty. Add other ingredients, folding in egg whites last. Turn into mold with waxed paper; cover with waxed paper and steam one-half hour, or until firm.

Remove from mold and serve with Hollandaise or cream sauce.

Ask your neighbor about his or her sales through Courier classifieds. Then follow the example, and earn money for yourself.—(Advertisement).

BRISTOL SPORT LOVERS GOT MANY THRILLS IN LOCAL ACTIVITIES DURING THE YEAR WHICH ENDED LAST FRIDAY

By Thomas Juno

Sports lovers of Bristol and vicinity were provided with many thrills and spectacular plays during the year of 1937. Sports were on the up-grade and teams reported that the year was successful both financially and spiritually.

Baseball, football, basketball, amateur boxing, roller skating, hockey, pool, tennis and bowling went the rounds throughout the entire year and with 1938 independent sports already under way, it is hoped that more interest will be given so that they may produce more and better sports.

Under the guidance of President Herbert Yates, the Bristol Bowling Association conducted three leagues during the season. The Bristol League was won by the Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company five with Eddie McDevitt as manager. The Elks won the American League title while the National League crown went to the American Stores Company. Other officers of the Association were Andrew Jackson, vice-president, and Leonard Monahan, secretary and treasurer.

Several Bristol teams entered the American Bowling Congress contests in New York and a Bristol team, Joe Barton's White Flash five, was the first Pennsylvania quintet to finish in the money.

The annual Municipal tennis tournament was held with the games being played on the Elks tennis court, Corson and Buckle streets. The winner of the tourney was Fred Davies, and the runner-up, Bud Pearson. Nelson Green and Herbert Lawrence, Bristol's tennis ace, did not enter the tournament here but were in the Trenton City tournament. Lawrence won this beating out Green in the finals. The above Bristolians played in several other elimination tournaments including the State Tournaments at Kenwood, Merion, and Germantown.

The advent of the baseball season saw the passing of two strong independent teams of this vicinity, the Hulmeville A. A. and the Edgely Braves. Howard Black, manager of the Hulmeville team, champions of 1935, announced that the Hulmevillites would not enter the Delaware River League. The Braves joined the Trenton City League but dropped out at the start of the second half. They continued to play independent ball until almost the close of the season.

Dave Landreth again organized the Landreth Seed Company nine and played a long schedule. At times his club played like champions and again at times it was a dismal failure. In the long run, however, it closed the season with many more victories than defeats. On one occasion, the club won eight straight games and scored its most notable victories over the Bacharach Giants, House of David, Wissinoming and the O'Donnella, champions of the Trenton City League.

Landreth used some of the best players of nearby towns in mounding together his club. As catchers he used Sid Purcell, Jack Roderick, and Bill Harvi; first base, Frank Griggs; second, Eddie Liberator; shortstop, Eddie Debokey; third, Glee Dougherty; left, Vic Rockhill; center, Claude Lodge; right, Camel Breslin. His pitching staff was composed of Art Neff, Turner Ashby, Howard Black and Dutch Henny. At times, Dave used every other player including Bill Everingham, Bill Sweeney, Barney Frappoli, Paul Barrett, Sid Purcell, Joe Roe and Eddie Sullivan.

The Bristol A. A. team continued to play games at home and away, using Leedom's field as its home field. Johnny Mulholland managed the team which was composed mostly of players from the Bristol Twilight League. The team won more games than it lost, despite the fact that many of the players were inexperienced to the calibre of teams scheduled.

The Bristol Twilight League furnished the sport fans of this locality with their evenings of baseball, scheduling their games four evenings a week. It was the thirteenth season for this organization and saw a change in the office of president. Dave Landreth resigned this post and he was replaced by Thomas Juno who also was elected secretary and treasurer. Robert Sutton was vice-president.

Three industrial teams entered the loop and this helped immensely in drawing new interest into the circuit. The clubs were evenly matched and competition was close throughout the entire season. The teams and their managers were as follows: St. Ann's Raymond Pico, Hibernians Lawrence Delaney, Old Fellows Robert Sutton, Superior Zinc Company, Elmer Blackney, William H. Grand Company, Roy Fry, Rohm & Haas Company, Howard David. The board of arbitration consisted of John Boyle, David Landreth, and John Elmer. Umpires were: Joe Kervick, Frank Fields, Felix Tomlinson, Nevil Martinley. Scores were: Carlo Jono, Thomas Juno, James Dolan and Louis Tomlinson.

The first half race was won by the Hibos with St. Ann's second and the Old Fellows, third. The second half was copped by the Old Fellows after a close finish with Grandville and Hibernians. In the playoff title, the Old Fellows won by Dave Kniss and once by Billy Gallagher, southpaw artist. The Oddies won the third game. The fourth game finished 1-0 and the only marker was scored on a pass to Joe Roe, a passed ball, and a single by "Eddie" Roe.

Word was received here during the season that "Bill" Fine, local boy, was elevated to manager of the Suburb team of the Canadian-American League. "Eddie" Sullivan was given a contract to pitch and play the outfield for a club in the East. He captured his first game on the hill and was credited with a single and a double in three trips to the plate. Larry David also played in the same circuit. "Al" Pitko, former member of the Landreth Seed team joined the Centerville team of the Eastern Shore League. During most of the season, Pitko led in home runs and slugging. He will receive a tryout with the Phillies this spring.

After the ball games were over on Monday nights, the sport-lovers journeyed their way to Wood Street where the open air arena of the St. Ann's Athletic Association is located. The St. Ann's club sponsored amateur boxing bouts under the jurisdiction of the Middle Atlantic district of the Amateur Athletic Union. Sammy Moffo acted as matchmaker and director of amateur boxing activities.

Many Bristol boys fought in the squared circle, the notables being: Sammy Sindora, Hokey Leighton, Syd Purcell, Leo Glantz, Tony Puccio, Vince Della, Tully Sclaria, Joe Ferrara and Carl Spinelli.

Cicanti, Ferrara and Spinelli entered the ring as novices. Ferrara and Spinelli were of the boxing type of fighters while Cicanti proved to be a "killer." Both of his first two opponents finished on the floor before the second round closed. The entire three won more bouts than they lost for the season.

The best youth for the Bristol fans was Hokey Leighton who fought under the colors of the Bucks County Rescue Squad. Leighton was a thriller for the crowds, for every minute he was in the ring it was just a matter of routine to be swinging, dancing, weaving, bobbing and playing the ropes. At one time he was the proud possessor of a winning streak of nine straight bouts but this was stopped by Danny Murray, Arena Club. Murray beat Leighton but the Crocydon youth had fought earlier in the evening and whipped Joe Amico, Pen Mar.

Sylvester Purnell was next on the list and he had the best average of the St. Ann's mittmen. At one time his streak of victories reached seven straight before he was dethroned by George Huey. Liberty Post, Willow Grove, fighter.

Puccio won his first three bouts and then quit. Sclaria did not enjoy a successful year in the win and lost column but was forced to battle the best amateurs in Philadelphia in order to secure bouts. Della changed his style of fighting which was approved by many fight fans but disapproved by the majority. In a Trenton tournament, Della was a runner-up to Tony Sclagione, formerly a "Puck" fighter. Sindora was headed for the Middle Atlantic 147-pound championship until he ran into Mayon Padlo, Pen Mar. Padlo finished Sindora in the third round after lacing him for the first two. Sindora was never the same after that.

A Bristolian, "Chet" Castor, who fought in the amateurs under the colors of the Daggett Boxing Club, turned professional and at the present time is fighting at the Cambria. He recently whipped Johnny Ferrara, Joe Cook and Adolph Rittacco. "Puck's" fighter, "Billy" Maher, and "Jimmy" Tygh, former amateurs who fought here turned "pro" and have yet to taste a defeat.

Tygh scored an impressive victory over Gene Gullatto, two weeks ago. With the close of boxing and the national game, the fans turned their hearts to the pigskin frays of this section. The Bristol "Rees", Andalusia, South Langhorne, and St. Ann's organized their teams early in the season. St. Ann's, Andalusia, and the Recreation Center teams were entered in the Bucks County Independent Football League but this failed to materialize and so independent games were booked.

Joe Diamanti coached the Andalusia Green Jackets and his club finished the season with twelve victories, two defeats, and a tie. In its annual clash with the St. Ann's team, the Andalusians played grand football and St. Ann's had to be at their best to score a 6-0 triumph. "Teddie" Tosti's end run of thirty yards produced the only score of the tilt. Rankin, Younghelm, Carter, Trummer, Lange, McCallan and Chapman, starred for the Green Jackets throughout the season.

By defeating the St. Ann's team, the "Rees" claimed the Lower Bucks County championship, although they had the poorer record of the four clubs. But on the other hand, the Rees played much stiffer opposition, meeting such clubs as Roebing, Lambertville, Florence, Olney, Port Richmond, and Glenside. Besides the St. Ann's victory, the only other club beaten by the Rees was the Florence team, champions of Burlington County.

The victory scored over the "Saints" on the high school field, Thanksgiving Day, was played before a record-breaking crowd. It was Glee Dougherty who did the damage against the Purple and Gold. "Glee" broke off for a touchdown in the first period and then booted the extra point before the first half was over. Dougherty had kicked two field goals to make the score 13-0. The three-pointers were booted from the thirty-five and twenty-yard lines, respectively. Other scorers for the "Rees" were Wilson, Drexin, Mellor, Baker and "Punkie" Zorles.

In competing against other Bucks County clubs, St. Ann's compiled a fine record, winning over Doylestown, Morrisville, Andalusia, and Yardley, and losing to the Rees and Sellersville. The most impressive victories were over Doylestown and Yardley in which this they were outweighed but

Will Oscar Be Scalped?

By BURNLEY

Among other topics providing the meagre 1938 fuel for Hot Stove League consumption is the problem of the new Indian chief. This little mystery story might be sub-titled "How Long Will Oscar Last?"

The hero of this epic of life among the Cleveland Redskins is none other than Oscar Vitt. Come, come, you remember Oscar. He's the guy who led the Newark Bears to the most sensational triumph in Minor League history last season, when the Yankee apprentices copped the bunting by more than twenty games.

Oscar is stepping into trouble when he takes over the post of Cleveland manager. His predecessors in recent times had stormy reigns and were eventually scalped after being subjected to the most painful heckling from bloodthirsty Injun fans and scribes.

This Speaker, Roger Peckenpaugh, Walter Johnson and Steve O'Neill are some of the guys who failed to click as Injun chiefs.

Vitt will have the thankless job of bringing along Bob Feller, erratic young phenom of the mound. Already they are predicting a twenty-game victory total for Bob in 1938, which means that Oscar will get the blame if the kid fails to deliver.

(Copyright, 1938, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

By line blocking managed to eke out triumphs Sammy Ross and Bobby Moore scored against Doylestown while "Sage" Sagolla's fifteen yard run was the only 6-pointer scored against Yardley. Other players who stood out were: Tommy Profy, Tosti, Firman, Henry Kornstedt and "Carm" Gullatto. The team was coached by Bill Dougherty, formerly of the Bristol High School.

"Socks" Seneca and "Bud" Tulio stepped into a faster grade of football by playing with the Magnolia team of the Eastern Conference. At the close of his career with St. Joseph's College, Johnny Cole, former Bristol High School star, was signed by Brist Bell to play with the Philadelphia Eagles of the National Professional League. Cole was elected captain of the St. Joseph team, and picked by several writers as one of the best fullbacks in Philadelphia.

Only one team participated in roller-skating hockey, that of the Bristol Recreation Center. It played such teams as Atlantic City, Elizabeth, New Brunswick, Trenton and Saratoga and won many games. Its stars were the Ritter boys, Mushy Higgins and Shorty Riemer.

The municipal pool tournament was sponsored by the St. Ann's organization and was won by Joseph Borneice. Other competitors included: Henry Morgan, Eugene Squillace, Nick Gilardi, Harry Kendig, James Palermo, Edward Strong, William Tantis, John Tershon, Philip LaSalle, Philip Quier.

Mill boys. It was in the ensuing minutes where the Diesel boys showed their fine shooting. Tightening up their defenses and staying close to their men, they proceeded to hold the Bristol boys scoreless while they allowed themselves a total of ten points. Brennan, the iron guard of the "Oilers," racking up four points in this quarter, all of these points coming from near the center of the floor. The half ended with Philadelphia ahead, 13-4.

The third quarter showed the Oilers piling up their lead as two field goals put them farther ahead by 17-4. La Cielia for Mill put a nice lay-up shot to cut the lead. The rest of the quarter showed both teams fighting for the ball. The fourth quarter the Mill Street defense stilled the big guns of the Blue still further. While Canfield drew three foul goals, amassing his total to seven points. However, it was a hopeless finish as Tom Profy drew a foul shot to shoot the score to 19-10. The game ended with both teams still fighting for the ball, and looking as though the game was only in its early stages.

One thing was in evidence—that the fine passing attack and usually good shooting of the Bristol boys was missing (especially Petrick). They looked a little bit awkward, but take nothing away from the Oilers—they made their shots good, thus explaining the reason why they are supporting one of the best teams in their history. Mill Street will again play these boys on February 10th. On Thursday night they travel to North Philadelphia to play George Bell's Stanfield Boys Club.

JACK DONOVAN BEATEN BY COX

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 13—Charging his opponent with the mad rush of an enraged bull, Dynamite Joe Cox, Cleveland badman, flattened Jack Donovan, Boston Irishman, on the canvas after 28 minutes to win the feature wrestling match at the Arena last night.

Varying his attack with an assortment of eye gouges, kicks and forearm blows, Cox had the Bostonian more or less at his mercy throughout the bout. Cox's head met Donovan in the mid-section as the former rebounded from the ropes and Jack fell writhing on the mat. Referee John Seaman, after giving Donovan ample time to regain his feet, awarded the bout to Cox, declaring Jack unfit for combat.

Wally Dusek, one of the branches from the famous Dusek family tree, and Mike Mazurki, ex-Manhattan College grizzer, staged a bristling draw in the semi-windup. For 30 minutes these two exponents of the gentle art of wrestling battled on near even terms, only to have the timekeeper's bell end the fray.

In a bout that provided plenty of action for 13 minutes, Bert Rubi defeated Boris Demitroff, rugged Bulgarian. Ralph Garibaldi, younger brother of the famous Gino, took the second match on the card when he pinned Jack Holland, handsome California youngster, in 22 minutes. Gezi Tako won his third successive victory here when he stopped Jim Wallace in 14 minutes.

TWO BRISTOL BOYS IN TRENTON TOURNAMENT

Tully Sclaria and Joe Ferrara have entered in the annual Golden Glove tourney which is to be held Monday, January 17, at the Trenton Armory. Sclaria and Ferrara are training diligently for this tourney. Sclaria has entered in the 126-pound class and is determined to win this tournament. Ferrara is also entered in the 126-pound division and between these two Bristol should have a victory.

HULMEVILLE

Christian V. Tomlinson, Langhorne, will be host on Monday evening to members of Neshamony Methodist official board, at their monthly business and social meeting.

Members of Neshamony Lodge, No. 422, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, will attend Sunday evening service in the Church of the Redeemer, Andalusia, the sermon being delivered by the rector, the Rev. W. W. Williams, at eight o'clock.

Mrs. George Frederick, Mr. and Mrs. John Zeigler and George Wohlgenuth, Sr., Philadelphia, were dinner guests on Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Frederick.

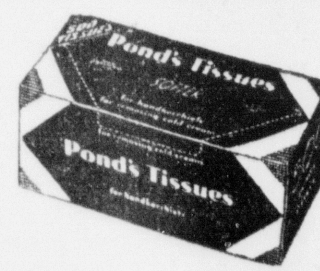

FALLSINGTON

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Quillen and family were week-end guests of Mrs. Quillen's parents, in Modena.

The Misses Moon and Mrs. Lillian Lafferty were recent visitors at the home of Mrs. W. Herbert Burk, Valley Forge.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bowen, Philadelphia, and the Misses Esther and Elma Wildman, Langhorne, were Sunday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Headley.
